

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1894.

A REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN ARGUMENT.

Senator Jones, in his letter to the Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee announcing his withdrawal from the Republican party, said:

Having become firmly convinced that the Republican party organization is unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver at the American ratio of 16 to 1, or at all, except with the consent of foreign Governments, and at a ratio to be dictated by them, I have to announce that I can no longer act with that party.

In the East this is used as an argument in favor of the Republican party. The Boston Journal, the leading Republican paper of New England, says "Senator Jones gives the Republican party a certificate of soundness on the money issue, and a most admirable campaign argument in his letter of withdrawal." The fact that so eminent an authority on money as Senator Jones should leave the Republican party because he is firmly convinced that the party is opposed to free coinage, is used by the party in the East as an argument in favor of restoring the party to power in Washington.

In the Republican strongholds east of the Mississippi the party press and leaders do not attempt to deny the hostility of the party to silver. They are unalterably opposed to free coinage, and so declare in their platforms and on the stump. They use no such disguise as "interconvertibility" to deceive the ordinary voter. Not so, however, with their double-dealing, hypocritical brethren in Nevada. Here they declare for free coinage and assume an air of sincerity that is calculated to deceive the unsophisticated; in the East they declare against silver coinage, and point to the defection of Senator Jones as proof that the party is sound on the gold question. Here the leaders want office and see no hope of gratifying their ambition except by deluding the people with the erroneous idea that the Republican party favors free coinage.

In the face of the record, it requires indurated cheek to contend that the party, whose ideal statesman is Senator Sherman of Ohio, favors the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 or at all. Every intelligent Republican knows it does not and laughs in his sleeve at anybody who is foolish enough to think otherwise.

MONEY IN CIRCULATION.

The Treasury statement of the money in circulation, in the United States on September 1st shows a considerable reduction during the previous year. The total amount is given at $1,646,971,481, or about $21 per capita for the whole population of the country. This is $10,902,755 less than was reported August 1st and $24,000,000 less than was reported as being in circulation on September 1, 1893. There is much more money in the banks now than there was a year ago, but the money stored in the bank vaults and the money hoarded by individuals and taken out of circulation, is included in the computation of the Treasury Department. Every dollar in paper or coin issued by the Government since 1860 and not redeemed is set down as being in circulation.

This, of course, is misleading. Millions of paper money has been destroyed in one way or another, yet it is computed as being in actual circulation. Gold coins that have been buried or put away in tin cans and old stockings, and which is as useless to the country as if in the bottom of the Pacific ocean, is reckoned by the Treasury experts as being in circulation, as is also the gold taken out of the country in the pockets of tourists.

But the Treasury Department desires to create the impression that there is abundance of money in the country. That is the Wall street idea, and the Treasury echoes the sentiments of the gold brokers. They insist that money is plentiful though a bushel of wheat commands but sixty cents, and men seek in vain for employment at living wages.

THE DEMOCRATIC QUARREL.

At the Presidential election in 1892 the Cleveland Electors received 714 votes in the State of Nevada. Since then a number of those who voted for Mr. Cleveland have declared themselves members of the Silver party or the People's party. The others have divided into two factions each claiming to be the Original Jacobins or Simon pure Democrats. Both have held State Conventions, neither of which could in any sense be considered a representative body. The Harris faction acted upon the authority vested in them by the Winnemucca Democratic State Convention of 1892, which nominated the late G. W. Cassidy for Congress and C. H. Belknap for Justice of the Supreme Court and elected a State Central Committee, of which H. Harris was chosen Chairman. The Dennis faction claim title by reason of the secession of eight or nine members from the main committee, and setting up on their own account. The Secretary of State, who is a Republican, and naturally intent on creating as much confusion as possible in the Democratic ranks, recognizes the Dennis, or bolting faction, and the matter may be taken into the courts to determine which of the two factions is entitled to a place on the ticket under the Australian Ballot law.

It looks like the battle of the frogs and mice in Esop's fables.

Pays the Penalty With His Life.

LEHI, Utah, September 14.—Enoch Davis, wife murderer, is dead. The life was shot out of him at 11:40 o'clock this morning by six specially deputized executioners whose identity to the public is unknown. The shooting took place in a dry hollow six miles north of Lehi. Davis was conveyed to the fatal spot direct from the penitentiary under an escort of armed United States officials. It was only with the utmost vigilance that at 2 o'clock this morning Deputy Marshall Fowler got the executioners out of town unseen. The men were driven out of the city by a circuitous route in a closed carriage and pitched their tent in the foothills about a mile east of the railroad. After bidding goodbye to his brother and two sons he was placed in a chair and a piece of paper placed over his heart, at which the executioners aimed when the signal was given. Five bullets hit the paper, while one missed. Davis died game.

Congressman Wilson's Opinion.

LONDON, September 14.—Congressman Wilson said to-day, Maine's situation prevents the State from being the index of the political currents of the United States. Wilson stated that President Cleveland had no thought of a nomination. Reed and McKinley were Republican candidates, but he thought the Republican party would select a tariff conservative like Allison. The United States will never revert to protection and the tariff will not be attacked when Congress meets.

Mohammedans and Hindoos Fighting. BOMBAY, September 14.—Rioting between Mohammedans and Hindoos at Hoonan City continues. All business is suspended and the streets are patrolled by troops. Fourteen Brahmins have issued a pamphlet urging the Hindoos to arms and inaugurate a religious outbreak as the first step toward the overthrow of an alien power.

Two Young Burglars Caught.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 14.—Richard Nolan, aged 14 years, and Alfonso Belcher, a year older, were arrested this morning for burglary, they having entered Vette & Co.'s grocery store, where Belcher was formerly employed, and taken $23. They were caught by the police just as they were leaving the place.

The Traffic Association in Politics.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 14.—The Traffic Association to-day met and endorsed the candidates for Railroad Commissioners. They are: First District, H. M. LaRue; Second, Alfred J. Marcus; Third, W. W. Phillips. LaRue and Phillips are the regular Democratic candidates, while Marcus is an independent candidate.

Likely a False Rumor.

WASHINGTON, September 14.—The report that H. R. Whitehouse, Secretary of the United States embassy in Italy, has been appointed Minister to China, is discredited here. It is not believed that if Minister Denby is to be relieved that a man totally unfamiliar with Chinese affairs would be appointed.

A Stage Robbery.

UTAH, Cal. September 14.—The Idaho stage was held up this afternoon ten miles north of this city by masked highwaymen. Wells, Fargo's box was taken but the amount of treasure secured is yet unknown. Sheriff Johnson is now out after the robbers.

The Hop Harvest in Full Blast.

SANTA ROSA, Calif., September 14.—Hop picking has commenced and the yield is enormous and will reach 20,000 bales. Hop pickers are in great demand and unless more hands are obtained some of the hops will spoil.

Fast Two-Year-Old Record.

TERRE HAUTE, September 14.—Carbonte to-day made a new record for two-year-old pacers, the time being 2:00.

WINNEMUCCA EX-STRIKERS.

They are Released Without Bail.

The Silver State says: "D. V. Merriam and W. S. Elliott arrived by stage from Kennedy yesterday afternoon, being accompanied by a deputy marshal named Sandbach, who went to that place Wednesday with a Southern Pacific warrant for their arrest. They and G. M. Rose appeared before Commissioner Archer and were released on their own recognizance. This makes five of the Winnemucca ex-strikers who so far have been served with warrants, there being three who have not had the pleasure of having read to them the delectable and wonderful complaint sworn to by two local employees of the railroad."

Social and Musical.

The ladies of Unity Congregation will give a musical and literary entertainment at Library Hall this Saturday evening. A splendid program has been arranged and the evening will be pleasantly and profitably spent by all who attend. The admission, including ice cream, has been fixed at the small price of 25 cts. Let there be a good attendance for a worthy cause.

Woman's Guild Meeting.

The Women's Guild of Trinity Church will meet to-day, Saturday, September 15th, at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Pinniger.

E. O. BARCOCK, Secretary.

Thanksgiving Masquerade.

The O. of U. Masquerade and Carnival ball on next Thanksgiving night under the management of that experienced manager P. H. Mulcahy, will excel anything heretofore attempted in that line. Fifty dollars in silver coin will be given to the best groups; also silver coin prizes for individual costumes, ladies and gents. Full particulars later on.

DENNIS DEMOCRATS.

They Meet in Convention and Nominate a Ticket.

What is known as the Dennis faction of the few hundred Democrats in Nevada held a State Convention in Carson yesterday. Like the Yerlington-Fulton Combination, which assembled in Reno, and the Harris Convention, which met at Carson a few days ago, the "left" of the delegates were from Ormsby, Storey and Washoe counties, and the "great East" was conspicuous by its absence.

Chairman Dennis called the meeting to order, S. S. Sears was elected Temporary Chairman, the usual committees were appointed and a recess taken.

Upon reassembling the following ticket was nominated by acclamation: Congressman—B. F. Riley of Humboldt.

Governor—Theodore Winters of Washoe.

Controller—D. H. Hall of Eureka.

Treasurer—W. D. Thompson of Storey.

Attorney General—W. C. Grimes of Washoe.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—S. S. Sears of Washoe.

State Printer—James Murray of Washoe.

Regent (long term)—J. W. Hyslop of Ormsby.

Regent (short term)—A. Wiseman of Elko.

The platform endorses Cleveland's administration in the strongest terms, and demands the full and unlimited coinage of silver. It also declares emphatically against the Funding bill, is in favor of the appointment of a National Board of Arbitration to adjust all differences arising between employers and employees and endorses Cleveland's action with regard to the tariff.

After a State Central Committee was selected the convention adjourned.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of Miss Mamie H. Chism took place from the residence of her parents yesterday and was very largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Magill, and the singing by the Congregational Church choir. The pall-bearers were her classmates when she graduated at the High School last June, namely: Miss Bertha Twombly, Miss Jeanette Coleman, Miss Pearl Hart, Miss Bertha Aitken, and Masters Wm. Seymour, John F. Aitken, Alfred Longley and Guy Walts. The floral offerings were numerous, and one by the young ladies' graduating class was especially handsome and appropriate. The interment was made in Hillside cemetery, where all that is mortal of the bright, intelligent and handsome girl was consigned to Mother earth.

People's Party Primaries.

The primary for the election of 101 delegates to the People's party county convention will take place to-day. Reno is entitled to 66 delegates in the convention. It should be remembered that there is no silver party organization in this county and that all who support the nominees of the People's party county convention are entitled to vote. It is to be hoped that delegates will be chosen who have the interests of the county at heart and who will nominate a ticket in the county convention that every honest citizen can conscientiously vote for in November.

I. O. O. F. Funeral Notice.

Members of Truckee Lodge, No. 14, and Reno Lodge, No. 19, and all sojourning Brothers are respectfully requested to meet at Truckee Lodge Hall Sunday, September 17th, at 11:30 p. m., sharp, for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late Brother, William Roberts. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

M. Hammerly, a well-known business man of Hillsboro, Vt., sends this testimony to the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla: "Several years ago, I hurt my leg, the injury leaving a sore which led to erysipelas. My sufferings were extreme, my leg from the knee to the ankle, being a solid sore, which began to extend to other parts of the body. After trying various remedies, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and before I had finished the first bottle, I experienced great relief; the second bottle effected a complete cure."

BREVITIES.

The jury in the Hartley case, on being taken out for a walk at the noon recess, acted like a lot of boys let out of school. They had a sprinting match down Mill street and R. L. Fulton was in the lead.

Carriages were barred from the labor-day parade in Milwaukee, because it was claimed that they would create distinctions and jealousies; so all of the ten thousand men in line walked.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Riverside Mill Company will be held in First National Bank building, Thursday, October 11th. See official notice.

Madame Bonneville Leak has returned from her summer vacation and desires to inform the public that she will resume her select French class at the corner of Virginia and First streets. Those desiring to join the class are requested to apply at once. As heretofore strict attention will be paid to the pupils.

Harry Maynard's entertainment at Armory Hall was well attended last night. Mrs. Maynard's second sight performance is marvelous and all should see it. They have apartments at Mrs. Couch's Inverness Hotel and Mrs. Maynard will see anyone there who would like to consult her.

This will be a lively day. With a county convention for one party, primaries for another and the trial at the Court-house, it will keep interested ones busy to beat them all. In passing to and from the different points of interest it will be necessary to pass H. J. Thyes' store, and it is a splendid place for refreshments.

It Should be in Every Home.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay street, Sharpshooter, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds; that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of la grippe, when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cooksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for lung trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Free trial bottles at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store. Large bottles, 50 cents and $1.

STATE VS. HARTLEY.

A Sad Incident of the Third Day's Proceedings.

The Defendant Breaks Down and Leaves the Court-Room in a Hysterical Condition.

The Court-room was crowded at an early hour with spectators and as the closing scenes of the trial approaches more interest is manifested and speculation as to the outcome is becoming more general.

Opinions are freely expressed regarding the guilt or innocence of the defendant and seem to be about equally divided. The defendant's pitiable condition creates much sympathy for her, even among those who do not believe she was justified in the shooting. Her lady-like demeanor in Court and the patient manner in which she has borne the severe cross-examination, has made a favorable impression on nearly every one. At one point in the cross-examination, where she referred to her unborn child, the defendant broke down and sobbed, but almost immediately recovered her calmness and proceeded. At the close of the cross-examination, and just as her attorney, Judge Goodwin, began to question her he crossed the room to get the chair that Foley had raised over her. At the sight of it she suddenly arose from the witness chair, put her hand to her head and started rapidly for the Court-room door. As she reached it a low cry escaped her lips and as she gained the hallway the audience in the Court-room could hear one hysterical cry after another. Mrs. Wright, the defendant's nurse, and Dr. Phillips hurried out of the room. It was creditable to the large audience in the room that during the confusion a single rap of Judge Cheney's gavel cautioned silence and hardly a person moved until the prisoner had been taken to her room, each person in the Court-room avoiding any demonstration of the morbid curiosity that usually prevails in incidents of this kind. A number of the spectators were visibly affected and when Court was dismissed and the crowd filed down the stairs the eyes of several storm-visaged men were noticed to be moist and there was but little comment or conversation as the crowd moved out, few, if any, being inclined to talk.

After some delay the attorneys, jury and Court repaired to the defendant's apartments where the Judge dismissed court. This action being necessary as under the law the defendant must be present at all court proceedings during the trial.

Owing to the serious condition of the defendant the re-convening of court was delayed until half past two o'clock. As the defendant was brought into Court her steps were faltering, and the anguish depicted upon her features showed how intensely she was suffering both mentally and physically. Considering her unfortunate situation, and being a stranger almost in the community, with few friends and no ready funds, she is bearing up bravely in her fight for life.

The cross examination yesterday covered much that has already been published, there being only a few new details offered. The visit of the deceased to her rooms on the night of the 25th of February was detailed and the incidents that happened during that night were told. The tragedy was described in full from the time Foley entered the room until he left to go to Dr. Phillips's office. She stated that she was driven to desperation, that Foley struck her and told her he could buy a few men with twenty dollar pieces who would testify against her.

She was asked whether she had told any one that Foley had struck her, and she didn't know whether she had told Mr. Bragg that she was glad that she had killed Foley. She admitted that she might have made such a statement. That she couldn't tell all she said at that time. Mr. Woodburn then asked the defendant the following question: "Did you say the following to Mrs. Logan: 'that I demanded Foley to exonerate me; he struck me and turned his back. I told him I had come from a family of warriors and that they never shot any one in the back, he turned around and I fired, and was struck with horror for fear I had missed him. He came towards me with a chair and I fired the second shot.'" The defendant replied that she had no recollection of saying this to Mrs. Logan, and did not think she used the term "warriors" in her talk with Mrs. Logan.

She was asked her maiden name by the attorney and declined to give it, and said that she would decline to testify to anything concerning her family. She stated that Foley did not fall at the second shot but dropped the chair, and straightened up and said "that settles it, it has gone through me." I told him I was sorry I had been forced to do this. To a question as to her sorrow then, and her statements after, that she was glad she had killed him, and why she had changed her opinion so soon. She replied, "I am not sorry for what I did. I feel that I am not guilty. I regret the dreadful consequences and results, but I am not sorry for I feel that I was justified." She stated that she was born in 1864.

In stating the position of the rooms the defendant made a mistake and attorney Goodwin corrected her. The District Attorney objected, stating that the corrections and interference of the attorneys for the defense was unwarranted. Attorney Dodge stated that the insinuations of the State's attorneys was unwarranted.

The defendant again described the incidents of the night of the 25th, her resistance, the struggle and Foley's actions and treatment of her, calling her Alice and telling her she might call him Murray.

The cross-examination of the defendant lasted till after 11 o'clock before it was finished. Attorney Goodwin then began to question her when she was taken with hysteria and left the room. Upon taking the stand in the afternoon she testified regarding her acquaintance with Mr. Graves and Mr. Rennie and the business she had with them.

Mr. Goodwin asked her why she had declined to give the name of her first husband, maiden name, etc. She replied that her mother was 72 years old, that she was in delicate health and that if she gave the information asked for her situation might become known to her mother through the papers and it would kill her. That her sisters had families and were respected, and rather than to cause them grief or humiliation she would suffer the punishment. For this reason she declined to give her maiden name or widowed name.

Mr. G. O. Wright was recalled and testified regarding the note on which there was such a long examination the preceding day and also regarding the mailing of letters, etc. He was shown the note addressed to him and identified it as one he had received several days before the shooting, but had dropped it or mislaid it; had looked for it; but did not find it. (It was admitted by the State that the note had been found in Mrs. Hartley's apartments after the shooting.)

Mrs. Stewart Logan was called in rebuttal by the State. She said she had a conversation with Mrs. Hartley on the evening of the 26th of July in the jury-room. She said that as near as she could remember Mrs. Hartley stated to her that evening: "I said to him, turn your face to me, I never struck anyone in the back yet. As he turned I fired." Mrs. Logan said she could not say positively that Mrs. Hartley said, "I came from a family of warriors" at that time, but believed she had said something of that nature at another time; nor could she say positively that Mrs. Hartley said she was afraid that she had not struck him at the first shot. The lady stated that she had come to make a friendly call on Mrs. Hartley; that she was a married lady and a teacher.

In her cross-examination, she stated that she could not say positively that Mrs. Hartley said at that time that she had come from a family of warriors. She had made a remark at one time of that kind, but could not tell just when. She did not think that Mrs. Hartley stated that she was frightened or terror-stricken. She did not remember the exact words used; she was her friend and called for that reason. She told the defendant the less said about the matter the better. She said she had told the District Attorney of this a few evenings since, but could not say just when.

During the afternoon session, just as Mrs. Logan was called, Mrs. Foley entered the court-room, escorted by the late Mr. Foley's brother. At the conclusion of Mrs. Logan's testimony Mrs. Foley left the court-room hurriedly and did not return.

Upon motion of the attorneys for the defendant, the jury was taken to Mrs. Hartley's apartments to view the rooms. The argument of counsel, will begin to-day in the following order: The State will open the argument, then defendants attorneys will follow, the State closing. It is expected that the case will go to the jury by this evening.

A Card to the Public.

Having succeeded to the dental practice of Dr. H. A. Fredrick I take pleasure in placing my card before the public. I am now fully prepared to attend to all classes of dental work, including gold, crown and bridge work, at as low prices as is consistent with first-class operations. Trusting I may be favored in the future with the same generous practice the office has enjoyed in the past I shall endeavor to give thorough work and perfect satisfaction to all.

Very respectfully,
Dr. R. P. CHANDLER.

WEATHER BULLETIN.

Storm—Warm and Cool Waves—Indications Without Results—The Planet Mars.

(Copyrighted 1894, by W. T. Foster.)

St. JOSEPH Mo., Sept. 14.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm waves to cross the continent from September 14th to 18th and the next will reach the Pacific Coast about September 19th, cross the western mountains by the close of the 20th, the great central valleys from 21st to 23d and the Eastern States about the 24th.

Marked indications of wind and rain may be expected from this disturbance, but not much rainfall. The severe storms of the month with greatest rainfall were calculated for near the 4th, 16th and 26th.

This disturbance 20th, to 24th, occurs at the earth's autumnal equinox, the date on which the equinoctial storms are usually expected, but planetary positions this year indicate that the equinoctial storms will occur from 14th to 18th and 25th to 29th.

The warm wave will cross the western mountains about the 19th, the great central valleys about the 21st and the Eastern States about the 23d. The cool wave will cross the western mountains about the 22d, the great central valleys about the 24th and the Eastern States about the 26th.

THE PLANET MARS.

This planet now rises in the northeast soon after sunset and its course lies near the sun's Summer path. Being apparently the largest star in sight and of a fiery red color it is easily distinguished from other orbs.

It is now near its perihelion or closest point to the sun while the earth is near its aphelion or farthest point from the sun. This brings Mars near the earth and gives a most favorable opportunity for observing the planet. These opportunities occur at intervals of two and fifteen years apart.

In 1892 it was thus favorably situated and will not again return to such close proximity to the earth till 1909. At perihelion Mars is twenty-six million miles nearer the sun than when at aphelion and a perihelion opposition of Mars is over twenty-seven million miles nearer the earth than an aphelion opposition. A perihelion opposition occurs next month.

For these reasons Mars is the most interesting object of the heavens at this time and astronomers are giving special attention to it. Seventeen years ago while it was near the earth two moons were discovered that had never before been seen and that were, within the fifteen years previous, flying comets. In October Mars will be at opposition, nearest the earth, and at its most favorable position for observation. A good opera glass or a small telescope will bring the planet up to an interesting object but the moons can be seen only with a powerful telescope.

One of these moons is supposed to be seven miles in diameter, the other about five. One revolves around the planet in seven and a half, the other in thirty hours. One rises in the West, and sets in the East, five and a half hours after; the other rises in the East, and sets in the West, about sixty-six hours after.

Like our earth, the southern hemisphere of Mars is largely occupied by oceans and the northern by continents. Altogether the land surface is double the water surface, while the water surface of our earth is three times that of the land.

A curious feature about Mars is its canals, probably not built by inhabitants but cut by the action of water. About a hundred of these canals have been located and mapped by astronomers. There are hundreds, some of them more than a thousand miles in length and twenty-five to one hundred miles in width.

Astronomers have not undertaken to account for these canals, but it is known that the water surface of the planet is subject to great expansions and contractions which would indicate that the planet has a very flat land surface and is almost, if not totally, void of volcanoes and mountains.

In the light of this theory it is easy to understand how the tides caused by our earth and Jupiter would cause the land to be submerged and the ebb and flow tides to cut canals in the planes of Mars.

The diameter of Mars is 4,200 miles and its surface less than one-third of the earth's. Its equatorial diameter is about twenty miles greater than its polar diameter. Its days and nights are very nearly and its seasons the same as those of the earth.

The ancients called Mars the God of War and astrologists believe it has an influence on the human race. I do not understand astrology and have no ideas as to the basis of astrological calculations. But I do know that the planet has great influence on our weather and is the cause of the extensive northern droughts and the excessive southern rains this year.

The astrologists who make weather predictions say that Mars rules the weather this year and Saturn will rule the weather next year. I am of the same opinion, but I do not know why the astrologists so conclude. Their terms constitute a dead language to me and I have not time to study it out. Their weather forecasts are not altogether failures.

Seventeen years from this Mars will surely cause another drought in the Northern States and fifteen years from now the weather will be similar to that of 1892.

Our earth has been rapidly nearing Mars all through the past Summer and under the laws of magnetism, as explained and illustrated by all great electricians, this coming together of two great magnets necessarily sets in motion induction currents in both that resist the otherwise natural currents of both planets.

In causing great changes in weather conditions Mars at these two and fifteen year periods causes droughts in the highlands of Persia where the planet probably received its appellation of the God of War. Great droughts followed by famine are potent causes of war and in that light the planet may be entitled to its appellation.

MONSTER OF ISSOIR.

MYSTERY OF THE FOURTEENTH AR-RONDISSEMENT OF PARIS.

Singular Disappearance of Many Inhabitants of the Quarter—Enticing Its Victims With Music—Death of the Gigantic Spider.

For many years it is undeniably stated that in the fourteenth arrondissement of Paris—called the tomb of Issoir—a number of persons living in that quarter had mysteriously and periodically disappeared. The most careful researches, the most minute inquiries, the most skillful agents of the police had failed to discover the least trace of them.

Every year successively some inhabitants of this quarter would suddenly disappear, leaving their friends overwhelmed with grief and anxiety. It is also stated that these strange, inexplicable facts always occurred in the early spring—from the 20th to the last of March—and without regard to age or sex.

First a notary disappeared. It was thought he had used his client's funds and fled to parts unknown. Then an old woman, returning late one night from market, was the next victim, then a laborer going home from work. Then a last victim had been a young girl—a flower maker out late delivering her goods.
From that time she had as completely disappeared as if the earth had opened and swallowed her up. Strange to say, no children had been among the victims.

This peculiar fact was accounted for in this way. These mysterious disappearances always occurred late at night,
when the children were at home asleep.
As the time was drawing near for one of these periodical mysteries the chief of police became very anxious and instituted a strict surveillance, confiding
the matter to a number of the most skillful of his assistants, hoping the combined efforts of so many zealous agents would surely be crowned with success.

One night—this fact can be verified
by applying to the office of the prefect—a policeman about 8 o'clock in the evening heard a distant musical song, which seemed to come from the bowels of the earth. He listened and fancied the sound came from an opening in the center of the street, at the foot of an apartment rock called the tomb of Issoir, or the Giant's cave.

It may be interesting to state that this rock, which had its name from a legend that a giant had been buried there
many years before the Christian era, and this rock had been placed there to mark the tomb.

Surprised at this strange discovery—
for the opening had never been noticed before—the policeman waited, listening to this peculiar song, when he suddenly saw a young man approaching. He knew from his costume that he was a countryman lately arrived in the city.
This young man also seemed to hear the "abominable" sound, first walking slowly with a peculiar wavering step,
as if in cadence with this musical chant, then faster and faster as he drew near the fatal rock, until he ran with such velocity that in spite of the warning cries of the policeman he was swallowed up in this mysterious opening. Without taking a moment to consider the policeman rocklessly followed, first firing his revolver and giving one or two vigorous blasts on his whistle.

At this signal several of his comrades quickly arrived. The musical chanting had ceased, but they could hear in the dark, cavernous depths the muffled sounds of a desperate struggle.

By the aid of ropes and ladders they succeeded in entering this mysterious chamber. The light of their lamps revealed a sickening sight.

The countryman was lying on his back writhing in the grasp of an unknown monster, whose horrible aspect froze the agents of police with terror.

He was as large as a full grown terrier, covered with white, prehensible and bristling with coarse brownish hair. Eight jointed legs, terminated by formidable claws, were buried in the body of the unfortunate victim. The face had already disappeared. Nothing could be seen but the top of the head, and the monster was now engaged in tearing and sucking the blood from his throat.

As soon as they recovered from their horror and surprise a dozen balls struck the body of this sanguinary beast.

He reared up on his legs, a greenish,
bloody liquid flowing from his wounds,
and, with a frightful cry, expired.

The first policeman, who had given the alarm, was lying unconscious in one corner of the cavern, where he had fallen, a distance of 30 feet.

It was with great difficulty they succeeded in removing the two bodies and the unknown monster from the cavern.
The poor countryman was dead, but the policeman was soon restored to life.

The agents immediately sent for the commissioner of police, who summoned
a naturalist in great haste.

The first established the identity of the victim; the second declared the creature lying before him was a gigantic spider. The species had been considered extinct for centuries—ever since the days before the deluge. It was called "Arachno gigans" and was said to have the power of enticing its victims by a peculiar musical song. None had been seen or heard of for ages, but it is now believed some of these sanguinary beasts still exist in the deepest gal-eries of the catacombs.

The dead body of the spider was conveyed to the Museum of Natural History, where it was carefully prepared and stuffed and is now on exhibition.

Anxiety is the poison of human life.
It is the parent of many sins and of more miseries. In a world where everything is doubtful, where you may be disappointed and be blessed in disappointment, what means this restless soul and commotion of mind? Can your solicitude alter the cause or unravel the intricacy of human events? Can your curiosity pierce through the cloud which the supreme being hath made impenetrable to mortal eyes? To provide against a very important danger by the employment of the most promising means is the office of wisdom, but at this point we must stop.—Selected

The Seven Hell.

The Moslems believe in the existence of "seven great hot hells" bearing the names of Jahannam, Latha, Hutamah, Sakar, Sakar, Jihin and Al-Karlah. The first is to be the endless abode of the infidel, a vast which denies the creator; the second for Manicheans and Arians; the third for Brahmins; the fourth for the Jews, the fifth for Christians and the sixth for the Magians.
The seventh, the "great, great, hot hell," is to be reserved for liars and hypocrites.—St. Louis Republic.

The first copy in existence of the "Book of the Dead," 1893, is owned by the Rev. J. B. Dwyer, of the Catholic Church, St. Louis.
